1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Mandate and Objectives

The services of Hudon Desbiens St-Germain Environnement inc. (HDS Environnement) were retained by Baffinland Iron Mines Corporation (BIM) to perform indoor noise and whole-body vibration surveys in the accommodation facilities of the Mary River and Milne Inlet sites, located in the Qikiqtani Region (Baffin Island; Nunavut).

This study was carried out at the request of M. Shawn Stevens, manager of Health, Safety, Environment and Security of BIM (Mine site). Measurements were taken over the course of 2019 when a representative of HDS Environnement was on site.

1.2 Scope and Approach

The scope of the study included the following:

- Mary River Mine site (MRM) and Milne Port site (MP) :
  - Whole-Body Vibrations (WBV) surveys in rooms with a Human Vibrations Meter (HVM);
  - noise surveys with an integrating sound level meter (SLM) or a dosimeter;

The present report includes, but is not limited to, a brief description of the implemented strategy, sampling methodology, results, conclusions and relevant recommendations.

1.3 Study Limitations

The conclusions and recommendations included in this report are based upon professional opinions expressed within the context of the mandate given to HDS Environment by Baffinland Iron Mines. HDS Environment accepts no responsibility for any use that is made of this report in any other context or by any other party, unless being expressly informed prior to such use and having explicitly agreed to the use of this report by others.

2 SITES DESCRIPTIONS & OPERATING CONDITIONS

2.1 Sites descriptions

BIM operates two (2) sites 24/7/365 in the Qikiqtani Region: the Mary-River Mine site (MRM) and the Milne Inlet Port site (MP). Each site has its own accommodation facilities.

The accommodation facilities of the MRM site include the Mine Site Complex (MSC) and camp Sailivik. MSC has been gradually decommissioned over 2019 as the different wings of Sailivik camp were brought into operation. Sailivik camp, located between the mine infrastructure lay-down area and Sheardown Lake, accommodates approximately 800 workers and contractors.

Three accommodations facilities are also attached to the MP site: Port Site Complex (PSC), Port site Weather Haven (PWH) and a 380-man camp.

This study was conducted in June, September and December 2019.

2.2 Conditions during surveys

Sailivik camp, MSC and PSC, are composed of modular prefabricated structures; PWH and the 380-man camp are made of soft-wall structures. Rooms are standardised across each facility.

The indoor noise and whole-body vibrations measured in accommodation facilities include contributions from various indoor sources (HVAC systems, opening/closing doors, cleaning, etc.) as well as outdoor sources (idling vehicles, machinery operations, etc.).

Based on information collected on site, the operating conditions during the surveys were overall representative of regular activities, except for some measurements taken in September 2019 due to high machinery activity at PSC and the 380-man camp.

3 GUIDELINE VALUES

3.1 Indoor noise levels

According to information collected over the course of the mandate, the Nunavut Impact Review Board (NIRB) defined a 75-dBA threshold for workers' average noise exposure during resting time. This limit is based on the 85-dBA exposure threshold established by the Mine Health and Safety Act R-125-95 for an 8-hr work shift (Part IX and Schedule 5).

Additional research allowed to pinpoint the World Health Organization (WHO) Guidelines for Community Noise<sup>1</sup> which recommends an 8-hr  $L_{Aeq}$ <sup>2</sup> of 30 dBA during night-time, inside a bedroom (continuous noises). This guideline is designed to minimize sleep disturbance for “sensitive groups [...] including shift workers [...] and other individuals who have difficulty sleeping”.

Consequently, to take into account the NIRB requirements as well as the As Low As Reasonably Achievable (ALARA) safety principle, we will therefore consider in the present study a 30-dBA 8-hr  $L_{Aeq}$  comfort threshold and a 75-dBA 8-hr  $L_{Aeq}$  exposure limit (EL) to assess workers' exposure to indoor noise during resting time.

3.2 Whole-body vibrations

According to information collected over the course of the mandate, due to the lack of vibration exposure threshold in the Mine Health and Safety Act R-125-95, the NIRB refers to the daily exposure limits defined by the European Physical Agents Vibration Directive – 2002/44/EC for workers exposed to whole-body vibrations.

This directive defines an action limit (AL) of 0.5 m/s<sup>2</sup> and an EL of 1.15 m/s<sup>2</sup>, both standardized to an 8-hr reference period, for workers exposed to whole-body vibrations.

Additional research allowed to pinpoint 5-part standard from the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) on human exposure to mechanical vibrations. In appendix C of part 1 of the standard<sup>3</sup>, it is stated that “fifty percent of alert, fit persons can just detect a weighted vibration with a peak magnitude of 0.015 m/s<sup>2</sup> [...] with a range of response [that] may extend from about 0.01 m/s<sup>2</sup> to 0.02 m/s<sup>2</sup> peak”.

In part 2<sup>4</sup> of the same standard, it is also stated that “experience showed in numerous countries that residents expressed complaints linked to vibrations in residential buildings when the magnitude of vibrations are slightly above the perception threshold defined in part 1, appendix C”.<sup>5</sup>

Consequently, to take into account the NIRB requirements as well as the ALARA safety principle, we will therefore consider in the present study a 0.015 m/s<sup>2</sup> (peak exposure) comfort threshold, an 8-hr action limit (AL) of 0.5 m/s<sup>2</sup> and an 8-hr EL of 1.15 m/s<sup>2</sup> to assess workers’ exposure to whole-body vibrations during resting time.

It should be noted that the AL should be considered as a threshold for increased vigilance in order to prevent reaching the EL.

3.3 Summary

The comfort thresholds, ALs and ELs considered in the present study for indoor noise and whole-body vibrations are compiled in the table 1 below.

Table 1. Noise and vibrations thresholds during resting time

	Comfort threshold	8-hr Action limit (8-hr AL)	8-hr Exposure Limit (8-hr EL)

4 METHODOLOGY

4.1 Sampling strategy

The sampling strategy was established by BIM representatives prior to the industrial hygiene campaign and adjusted on the field by the HDS representative based on facilities' availabilities. The final sampling strategy is presented in table 1 below.

Monitoring instruments were set-up in different rooms targeted by BIM representatives. The rooms were unoccupied during sampling periods.

4.2 Indoor noise levels

Indoor noise levels were measured with either a Casella dBadge2 integrating dosimeter or a Casella CEL-242 integrating SLM, both supplied and managed by BIM. The instruments were calibrated before each sampling period using a Casella CEL-120/2 acoustic calibrator, also provided and managed by BIM. The calibration drift was controlled post-sampling with the same calibrator. The calibration certificates of these instruments are presented in Appendix A.

The instruments were set-up near the head of the bed or on a bedside table, when available.

Sound levels were logged at regular intervals (continuous readings integrated with a Q3 bisection factor, no integration threshold and a SLOW response).

Average noise levels ( $L_{avg}$ ) measured in the present study were considered representative of equivalent average noise levels time-weighted over an 8-hr period ( $8h-L_{Aeq}$ ) and were thus directly compared to the comfort threshold and the 8-hr EL considered in the present study.

4.3 Whole-body vibrations

Whole-body vibrations monitoring was conducted using a HVM100 or a HVM200, both from Larson Davis, equipped with a seat pad triaxial accelerometer SEN027. The June and September 2019 samples were taken with the HVM100, and its seat pad, both supplied and managed by BIM. December 2019 surveys were performed with a HVM200, and its seat pad, both rented by HDS Environnement. The calibration certificates of these instruments are presented in Appendix A.

The HVM100 supplied by BIM was set-up on "Vibration Mode" for frequency weighting and measurements were logged at a maximum of 5-min intervals during sampling.

The rental HVM200 was set on "Whole-body Mode" for proper frequency weighting and measurements were logged at 1-min intervals during sampling, unless stated otherwise.

Seat pads were either positioned on the floor (June and September 2019) or on the headboard of the bed (December 2019).

Average accelerations ( $A_{eq}$  or  $A_{rms}$ ) measured during the present study were considered representative of equivalent average accelerations time-weighted on an 8-hr reference period and were thus directly compared to the 8-hr AL and the 8-hr EL considered in the present study.

5.2 Whole-body vibrations

The vibration levels measured in accommodation facilities in 2019 are compiled in table 4 below. The session reports are presented in Appendix C.

The notable facts are as follow:

- all the vibration measurements taken in the accommodations respect the 8-hr AL, and thus the 8-hr EL, considered by the NIRB for exposure to vibrations during resting time;
- four measurements out of eleven exceed the comfort threshold:
  - Sailivik Camp - Rooms C2-12 and D1-27 (regular conditions);
  - PSC - Room BA-07 (sea can transport around the laydown pad area #4);
  - 380-person camp - Room G-45 (works on the laydown pad area);

Note: interpretation of results collected in June and September 2019 is limited by the data output of the HVM100 supplied by BIM.

- the lowest vibration level,  $0.0030 \text{ m/s}^2$ , was measured on June 25th 2019, in room 0.3 of the PWH, during nighttime;
- the highest vibration levels,  $0.18 \text{ m/s}^2$ , were measured on:
  - September 14th 2019, room C2-12 of Sailivik Camp, during daytime (no surface works around camp);
  - September 15th 2019, room BA-07 of PSC, sampling period covering the end of the day shift and the beginning of the night shift (sea can transport around the laydown pad area #4).

6 CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

The services of HDS Environnement were retained by BIM to perform indoor noise and whole-body vibration surveys in the accommodation facilities of the Mary River mining site and the Milne Port inlet site in the Qikiqtani Region (Baffin Island; Nunavut).

Whole-body vibrations and indoor noise levels were measured in various rooms in June, September and December 2019. Readings were taken both during daytime and nighttime and sampling periods occasionally overlapped with shift rotations.

Based on information collected on site, the operating conditions during the surveys were overall representative of regular activities, except for some measurements taken in September 2019 due to high machinery activity at PSC and the 380-man camp.

The conclusions and recommendations based on data collected during the present study are listed below.

6.1 Indoor noise levels

All the indoor noise measurements taken in the accommodations respected the 75-dBA exposure limit considered by the Nunavut Impact Review Board (NIRB) for exposure to noise during rest time.

All the measurements also exceeded the 35-dBA comfort threshold designed by the World Health Organisation to minimize sleep disturbance for shift workers.

The highest indoor noise level was measured during daytime in the 380-man camp, in September 2019 (peak of machinery activity around the camp).

Based on elements above, HDS Environnement recommends:

- further documenting indoor noise levels in the accommodation facilities of the MRM and MP sites, especially during peak activity;
- identifying stationary sources of constant noise above 35 dBA in accommodation facilities.

6.2 Whole-body vibrations

All the whole-body vibrations measurements taken in the accommodations respected both the 8-hr action limit and the 8-hr exposure limit considered by the NIRB for exposure to whole-body vibrations during rest time.

Four measurements exceeded the 0.015 m/s<sup>2</sup> comfort threshold defined by the ISO 2631 1:1997 standard. Three of them were measured in September 2019 (Sailivik camp, PSC and 380-man camp).

Based on elements above, HDS Environnement recommends further documenting whole-body vibrations levels with a HVM200 in various rooms of the accommodations of the MRM and MP sites, especially during peak activity.

- further documenting whole-body vibration levels, using a HVM200, in the accommodation facilities of the MRM and MP sites, especially during peak activity;
- identifying stationary sources of whole-body vibrations above  $0.015 \text{ m/s}^2$  in accommodation facilities.

Issuing lab certifies that the instrument described above meets or exceeds all specifications as stated in the referenced procedure (unless otherwise noted). It has been calibrated using measurement standards traceable to the SI through the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST), or other national measurement institutes, and meets the requirements of ISO/IEC 17025:2005. Test points marked with a ‡ in the uncertainties column do not fall within this laboratory's scope of accreditation.

The quality system is registered to ISO 9001:2015.

This calibration is a direct comparison of the unit under test to the listed reference standards and did not involve any sampling plans to complete. No allowance has been made for the instability of the test device due to use, time, etc. Such allowances would be made by the customer as needed.

The uncertainties were computed in accordance with the ISO Guide to the Expression of Uncertainty in Measurement (GUM). A coverage factor of approximately 2 sigma (k=2) has been applied to the standard uncertainty to express the expanded uncertainty at approximately 95% confidence level.
